Challenging Colonizing Logics within Management Research

Toward a Broader View of Management

Donna Ladkin, University of Birmingham, UK

'This inspiring book looks at our world of management research through the laser sharp eyes of one of our field's most iconoclastic thinkers, and one of its best writers. Donna Ladkin's insights demolish the complacent colonialist logics that have reigned supreme and done so much damage – until now. I can't recommend it strongly enough.'

– Dennis Tourish, University of Sussex

Business School, UK

'Anyone who hopes to do management research that goes beyond the exploitative tenets of colonialism that are deeply entrenched in so much of our thinking needs to read Donna Ladkin's breakthrough book Challenging Colonizing Logics within Management Research. The challenges of decolonizing our thinking and research approaches are immense, as Ladkin notes in the introduction, and yet to build a better world for humans and the rest of nature, doing just that is an imperative.'

Leadership in a Turbulent Era

Edited by Harry Garretsen and Janka I. Stoker, University of Groningen, the Netherlands

'Puts front and center the critical but neglected role that context plays in leadership dynamics by clearly articulating how turbulence poses both threats and opportunities for leaders.'

– Gary Johns, University of British Columbia, Canada

Harry Garretsen and Janka Stoker define turbulence as a multi-level phenomenon affecting both societies and organizations, proposing ways in which leaders can navigate through. Part 1 of the book sets the scene by connecting our turbulent times with leadership, and by addressing the main features of this era – be it various acute crises or more gradual but yet fundamental structural changes. The first part of the book also shows how leaders are affected by turbulence, and how they can effectively guide organizations and societies through unprecedented upheavals. Based on these state-of-the-art insights, in part 2 renowned academic experts provide guidance into the behaviors, mindsets, and practices effective leaders need to foster resilience, vision, and identity in turbulent contexts.

Handbook on City Logistics and Urban Freight

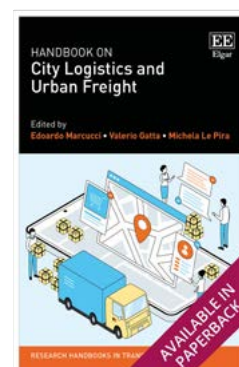

Edited by Edoardo Marcucci, Valerio Gatta,
Roma Tre University, Italy and Molde
University College, Norway and Michela Le
Pira, University of Catania, Italy

'This Handbook is impressive, extensive, and very current. There are many themes that challenge us today, centred on decarbonisation, supply chain constraints and institutional reform, to make us rethink how we might better embed urban freight into the changing fabric of our cities. The contributions to city logistics as seen as a multi-governance structure together with the latest developments in methods through digital twins to focus as much on short-term operational issues in contrast to the longer-term planning and policy issues is impressive.'

Franz Kafka and the Truths of Leadership

Leah Tomkins, Independent Scholar, University of the West of England, and formerly University of Oxford, UK

'Full of rich original work, this book has intellectual verve, an admirable sprightly conciseness, and an elegant, unshowy erudition. Tomkins writes so well about issues that have engaged me in the past: Perhaps the great saying of André Gorz applies, when he speaks of the "chaud bonheur" of realizing that someone else "has suffered even more than oneself for the same great cause" - oh, let's say, "suffered comparably". Kudos!'

TEXTBOOK Concepts of Company Law

Anne LaFarre, Tilburg University and Christoph van der Elst, Tilburg University, the Netherlands and Ghent University, Belgium

'Concepts of Company Law offers a comprehensive and easily accessible account of how company law governs corporate organizational structures and relationships between key corporate actors. Unlike most other textbooks, this book focuses on corporate law concepts and rules as such without a link to a single jurisdiction and is thus an excellent source for those studying company law in a global context. Students will also appreciate the book's interdisciplinary approach and the skilful use of examples and charts to illustrate complex material and link the law to practice.'

Luxury in Sport

Opulence, Prestige, and Influence in the Sport Industry

Ekaterina Glebova, Higher Colleges of Technology, Dubai, UAE and University Paris Saclay, Orsay, France

'A great book from Ekaterina Glebova. It is very well illustrated, with a deep conceptual reflection on a promising research topic. What an achievement from my ex PhD student. I am very proud of her.'

– Michel Desbordes,
University of Lausanne, Switzerland

This book analyses the multifaceted nexus between luxury and sport from an interdisciplinary and holistic perspective. From its historical roots to its contemporary manifestations, Ekaterina Glebova meticulously traces the evolution of opulence in sport, shedding light on its profound economic, media, sociocultural and ethical dimensions.

Delving into the economic landscape of sport, Glebova scrutinises the financial intricacies of sponsorships, investments and their impact on athletes, teams and fans. She explores the influence of societal and cultural factors on the perception of luxury in sport, bolstered by case studies reflecting its impact on popular culture. With a speculative gaze into the future, the book ultimately contemplates emerging trends and innovations in this field of study.

NEW IN PAPERBACK Handbook on City Logistics and Urban Freight

Edited by Edoardo Marcucci, Valerio Gatta, Roma Tre University, Italy and Molde University College, Norway and Michela Le Pira, University of Catania, Italy

'This Handbook is impressive, extensive, and very current. There are many themes that challenge us today, centred on decarbonisation, supply chain constraints and institutional reform, to make us rethink how we might better embed urban freight into the changing fabric of our cities. The contributions to city logistics as seen as a multi-governance structure together with the latest developments in methods through digital twins to focus as much on short-term operational issues in contrast to the longer-term planning and policy issues is impressive.'

Handbook on Institutions and Complexity

Edited by Eric Alston, University of Colorado Boulder, Lee J. Alston, NBER, USA and Bernardo Mueller, University of Brasília, Brazil

'The Handbook on Institutions and Complexity is a vital resource for any practitioner of modern political economy and social theory. Young scholars will have a hard time envisioning a time when the social sciences strove to develop an "institutionally antiseptic" theory of society. In response to this sterile vision of the social sciences, New Institutional Economics was developed and the powerful framework of analysis provided had wide acceptance in economics, politics and history. But translating the insights into the scientific strategy of modern social science often had the result for tractability of reasons of flattening the notion of institutions matter to its most simplistic rendering.'

Central Banking, Monetary Policy and the Political Economy of Dollarization

Edited by Sylvio Antonio Kappes, Federal University of Alagoas, Brazil, Review of Political Economy and Co-Director, Monetary Policy Institute and Andrés Arauz, Center for Economic and Policy Research, USA

'The international economy in recent years has been dominated by de-globalization and an attempt to move away from an international monetary order dominated by the US dollar. In contrast, we see countries, such as Argentina, now politically embracing dollarization, while others adopting private denationalised cryptocurrencies. The Kappes-Arauz book offers crucial insights to various aspects of dollarization in the world today, making this book essential reading for advanced researchers and policymakers.'

Exploring the Hydrogen Economy

Horizon Scanning for Business Cases

Sinan Küfeoğlu, HM Government, UK

'This book systematically sorts out key issues such as the development background of hydrogen energy, industrial chain characteristics, market, infrastructure and regulatory policies. By drawing cutting-edge experiences in the development of hydrogen around the world, the book provides multidisciplinary knowledge support for policymakers, industrial investors and scientific researchers, thereby supporting the sustainable development of human society with a cleaner, cheaper and safer energy system. It also presents numerous viable business cases from around the world where hydrogen can be deployed commercially. This is especially valuable when we think of the doubts about whether the hydrogen economy is economically viable.'

Edited by Hassan Bougrine, Laurentian University, Canada, Louis-Philippe Rochon, Laurentian University, Canada, Review of Political Economy, Review of Keynesian Economics and Monetary Policy Institute and Mario Seccareccia, University of Ottawa, Canada and International Journal of Political Economy

'Written in a lively point-counterpoint style that highlights the dogma and incoherence of the neoclassical worldview, the early chapters of this text give stellar accounts of Post Keynesian theories on money, consumption, investment, monetary and fiscal policy, inflation and unemployment, and the balance of payments. Sensible students who suspect mainstream texts of spouting obscure nonsense will find this one as refreshing as a cool shower on a hot day.'

NEW IN PAPERBACK*Elgar Companion to Herbert Simon

Edited by Gerd Gigerenzer, Max Planck Institute for Human Development, Germany, Shabnam Mousavi, Center for Artificial Intelligence (CENTAI) and Riccardo Viale, Herbert Simon Society, BIB-Behavioral Insights Bicocca of University of Milan Bicocca and LUISS, Rome, Italy

'There are very few geniuses in psychology, economics, and computer science; but Herbert A. Simon was perhaps unique in history in being an acknowledged genius in all three fields. It is little wonder that his work has been cited almost half-a-million times! I am so pleased that Edward Elgar is publishing this volume in honor of Simon's work, with three highly distinguished editors. This book will be a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the intellectual antecedents of so much of the scholarly and other work being done in these three fields, and allied fields, today. What a great tribute to Herb Simon, one of the scholars I admire most in the world, and whom I had the privilege of knowing personally.'

Planning for Urban Sustainability

Doctrines, Disciplines, and Practices

Edited by Malene Freudendal-Pedersen, Daniel Galland and Jens Iuel-Stissing, Aalborg University, Denmark

'This book is a wakeup call for planners to move away from the impossible dream of ready-made, all-encompassing solutions for urban sustainability. Instead, this book explores "urban contingency" to understand the place-specific conditions that make possible some courses of action but not others. This book demonstrates the enduring influence of Danish cities on planning as laboratories of urban environmental thought. An enriching read for all urban studies and planning scholars.'

Handbook on City Logistics and Urban Freight

Edited by Edoardo Marcucci, Valerio Gatta, Roma Tre University, Italy and Molde University College, Norway and Michela Le Pira, University of Catania, Italy

'This Handbook is impressive, extensive, and very current. There are many themes that challenge us today, centred on decarbonisation, supply chain constraints and institutional reform, to make us rethink how we might better embed urban freight into the changing fabric of our cities. The contributions to city logistics as seen as a multi-governance structure together with the latest developments in methods through digital twins to focus as much on short-term operational issues in contrast to the longer-term planning and policy issues is impressive.'

OPEN ACCESS*A Research Agenda for Landscape Studies of Planning

Edited by Mattias Qviström,
Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences,
Sweden

'This is a vital contribution at a moment when we urgently must rethink our relationships to life and land. All major challenges currently facing human societies lay, in a way or the other, at the interface of nature and culture. Landscape is an invaluable common 'matter of concern' for understanding how these multi-dimensional, intertwined challenges unfold in the physical and social world, and for exploring ways of tackling them. The authors of this fascinating, polyhedric book, equip us with the conceptual tools we need for the journey.'

OPEN ACCESS*Reflexive Urban Governance*Critically Engaging with Urban Policies

Edited by Jurian Edelenbos and
Beitske Boonstra, Erasmus University
Rotterdam, the Netherlands

This innovative book sets out the concept and potential of reflexive urban governance. It argues that combining the practices of urban governance with continuous reflexivity on the assumptions underlying urban policies allows stakeholders to develop collaborative problem-solving capacity and to learn from the successes, failures and outcomes of policy interventions.

NEW IN PAPERBACK*Rethinking Neighborhoods

Connections and Cohesion

William A.V. Clark, University of California, Los Angeles, US

'Neighborhoods matter! Drawing on a long career of urban scholarship, this book by Bill Clark provides a fascinating review of the social science on neighborhoods: how they emerge and change, how people sort into them, and why this matters for social mobility, health, general wellbeing, and society as a whole. Rethinking Neighborhoods: Connections and Cohesion shows how neighborhoods have and will continue to be an important geography for understanding society.'

'International humanitarian law is a rapidly developing field of international law. In light of recent wars in Gaza, Lebanon or Ukraine, Robert Kolb's Advanced Introduction discusses in a short and captivating manner some of the most controversial issues relating to the distinction between Hague and Geneva Law, ius ad bellum and ius in bello, combatants and civilians, humanitarian and human rights law, mixed conflicts or neutrality.'

– Manfred Nowak, Professor of Human Rights, Vienna
and Secretary General of the Global Campus of Human Rights, Italy

This timely second edition provides a thought-provoking introduction to international humanitarian law (IHL). Robert Kolb provides an updated exploration of the field through questions – which are at times challenging and controversial – in order to get to the very essence of the subject and give a fresh perspective. The result is an exposition of both the law as it stands, through its written and unwritten rules, and also of the uncertainties, gaps, controversies and practical problems which have arisen. IHL is revealed as a living tool, an ever-adapting means to an ever-remaining need of protection during times of armed conflict.

Key features:

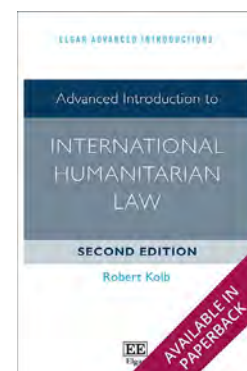

- Thoroughly revised and updated throughout
- Concise and accessible, whilst taking a rigorous approach
- Covers the main principles, sources of law and implementation
- Focus on key questions, exploring the whole system of law and its practical working

Innovations and Challenges

Edited by Rita Guerreiro Teixeira, Utrecht
University, the Netherlands, Marianna
Karttunen, OECD Public Government
Directorate, France, Axel Marx and Jan
Wouters, KU Leuven, Belgium

'Rule-making in international organisations has changed from state-centric to inclusive frameworks, including a wide range of stakeholders. While this development has the potential to increase legitimacy and accountability, it also introduces challenges. By analysing a range of sectors, organisations, and stakeholders, this book makes an important contribution to the scholarship in this field.'

A Modern Guide to Patents

Challenges of Patenting in the 21st Century

Edited by Nikolaus Thumm, ETH Board, Zurich, Switzerland and Technische Universität Berlin and Knut Blind, Technische Universität Berlin and Fraunhofer Institute for Systems and Innovation Research ISI, Karlsruhe, Germany

'A Modern Guide to Patents is a very engaging, highly contemporary and relevant review of topics at the center of the modern patent system. It draws on the finest minds in the applicable patent-related spaces to assess topics including patent management with an eye on AI and in crisis brought on by pandemics, considerations around PAEs, the ascendancy of trade secrets as a dominant form of IP protection, standards and the current issues associated with standard-essential-patents, as well as the evolving role of enforcement in an era marked by both threats to innovation as well as sharing economies in innovation. A Modern Guide to Patents is a great resource for a wide range of readers interested in the role the patent system plays in inciting innovation for the benefit of mankind.'

Comparative Contract Law, Fourth Edition

Exercises in Comparative Methodology

Thomas Kadner Graziano, University of Geneva, Switzerland

'As non-European readers, we are impressed by the book's genuine comparative methodology which is not limited to the European "big three" but extends to many other jurisdictions. For example, the new Chinese Civil Code of 2021 is largely cited, the analysis such as on the battle of forms and the transfer of ownership in movable property provides a precious reference for our Chinese jurists.'

– Shi Jiayou, Renmin University of China, Executive Director of the National Research Center of Civil and Commercial Law, China

Acclaim for previous edition:

'The perfect textbook for teaching this subject and for inspiring students. The book offers the unique opportunity to understand and master the challenges of cross-border contracting, which is quintessential for legal practice in a globalized world.'

– Bernhard Koch, Universität Innsbruck, Austria

Key Features:

- A comparative perspective on highly topical, real-life issues of contract law
- Materials from some 30 jurisdictions in both their original languages and high quality translations
- Students are able to solve scenarios according to the laws of different jurisdictions, to compare and evaluate the solutions and approaches they identify, and to better understand the diverse approaches to modern contract law
- NEW! Full integration of the new Belgian Civil Code and information on small and medium-sized jurisdictions further diversified

Research Handbook on the Philosophy of Contract Law

Edited by Mindy Chen-Wishart, National University of Singapore, Singapore and Prince Saprai, University College London, UK

'This excellent book provides a three-level analysis from contract theory to underlying principles to rules and doctrine, which act as a hermeneutical pathway to a deeper understanding of contract law. It shows that theory alone is of little practical consequence until applied to the crucible of underlying principles and whether principles can then be correlated with the rules that make up contract law. Given the quality of the scholars, the Research Handbook on the Philosophy of Contract Law will lead to a fuller understanding of why and how contract plays the important role it does in society.'

TEXTBOOK*Advanced Introduction to U.S. Corporate Tax Law

Jeffrey L. Kwall, Loyola University Chicago, USA

'For the uninitiated seeking an introduction to the extremely complex world of the United States tax treatment of corporations and their shareholders, I highly recommend Professor Kwall's Advanced Introduction to U.S. Corporate Tax Law. His goal is to introduce "readers to the intricacies of the corporate tax law of the United States." Therein, in a concise fashion, he addresses the major issues of corporate taxation in a well-organized, understandable fashion in ten chapters. Each begins with an introduction of the concept, followed by a discussion of the topic rich with practical examples that illustrate the application of the tax law to real world situations, and concludes with an effective summary. Professor Kwall has more than exceeded his goal.'

– Philip F. Postlewaite, Northwestern University, USA

Key Features:

- Analyzes key tax issues across all stages of the life cycle of a corporation
- Includes a detailed discussion of the tax aspects related to mergers and acquisitions
- Examines the tax treatment of corporations not subject to corporate tax, known as S Corporations

TEXTBOOK*Advanced Introduction to Political Jurisprudence

Martin Loughlin, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

In this Advanced Introduction, Martin Loughlin provides a concise analysis of political jurisprudence, a powerful but relatively neglected school of thought that offers a compelling account of the relationship between law and politics in the modern world. It shows how political jurisprudence continues to yield acute insights into the politico-legal challenges of our times.

Key features:

- Identifies the critical themes raised at the intersection of law and politics
- Examines the pivotal significance of such basic concepts as authority, state, sovereignty, constitution, freedom and legality
- Shows that the works of such major figures as Machiavelli, Bodin, Hobbes, Rousseau, Hegel, Marx, Weber and Schmitt are to be read as exemplary texts of political jurisprudence

TEXTBOOK

Concepts of Company Law

Anne Lafarre, Tilburg University and Christoph van der Elst, Tilburg University,
the Netherlands and Ghent University,
Belgium

'Concepts of Company Law offers a comprehensive and easily accessible account of how company law governs corporate organizational structures and relationships between key corporate actors. Unlike most other textbooks, this book focuses on corporate law concepts and rules as such without a link to a single jurisdiction and is thus an excellent source for those studying company law in a global context. Students will also appreciate the book's interdisciplinary approach and the skilful use of examples and charts to illustrate complex material and link the law to practice.'

– Suren Gomtsyan, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

Employing detailed case studies and real-world examples, this accessible textbook presents a clear overview of the core concepts of company law. The text will provide readers with a holistic understanding of the theoretical, financial, societal and practical aspects of company law.

Key Features:

- Incorporates multidisciplinary perspectives from law, business and finance
- Systematically guides students from basic to more complex concepts in company law
- Distinct boxes highlight key topics and enhance the learning experience with practical and numerical examples
- Addresses forward looking issues in corporate social responsibility in addressing global challenges, including climate change and human rights

University of Cambridge and Centre for International Sustainable Development
Law (CISDL), UK, Ted Gleason, Grenoble
Ecole de Management, France and Sean
Stephenson, Dentons Canada LLP, Canada

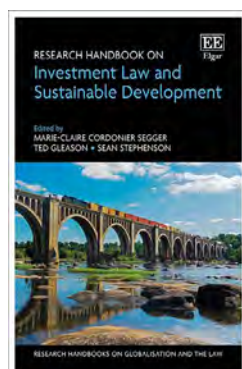

'This well-structured Research Handbook carefully reflects upon the transition from limited functions of international investment law securing the rule of law to fostering sustainable development in recent case law and modern agreements. Marie-Claire Cordonier Segger leads an impressive contribution to this effect. It is a most valuable source and essential reading for all working on international economic law, environmental law and the Sustainable Development Goals.'

EU Digital Markets Law

A Concise Guide to the Regulations and Directives on IT and Media Law

Wolfgang Kilian, Leibniz-University
Hanover, Germany

'For those from outside the European Union, its legislation on information and communications technology is often bewildering. Few can claim, for example, to succinctly differentiate the Data Governance Act (DGA), Digital Markets Act (DMA), Digital Services Act (DSA), Markets in Crypto-Assets Regulation (MICAR), the Data Act (DA) and Artificial Intelligence Act (AIA), or how the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) relates to each of them. This is but a small slice of the complexity this book addresses. Kilian gives this jungle a coherent shape by identifying five "new IT-legal regulatory complexes" and explaining groups of EU laws through that lens.'

– Graham Greenleaf, Macquarie University, Australia

Key Features:

- Provides practical perspectives on relevant legislation
- Evaluates IT Regulations and Directives in force in the EU
- Considers the emerging challenges of artificial intelligence in the context of the EU digital market

Floating Charges in Comparative Perspective

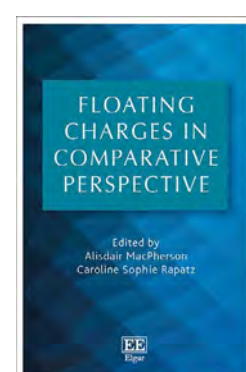

Edited by Alisdair MacPherson, University of Aberdeen, UK and Caroline Sophie
Rapatz, University of Kiel, Germany

'This book offers an excellent overview of how a security right can be established on continuously changing assets. It provides insights into the problems this presents from a more restricted approach to property rights. The topic is analysed across legal traditions, and the history of floating security rights is examined, with a broad global overview that includes Africa, China, Europe and North America – an impressive work of global comparative property law analysis.'

Implementing Transboundary Water Agreements

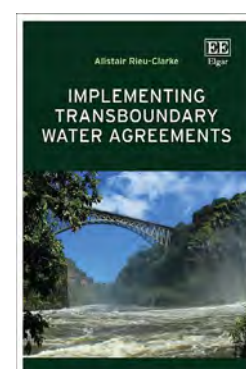

Alastair Rieu-Clarke, Northumbria
University, UK

Interdisciplinary and international in scope, this detailed book examines the types of compliance and implementation mechanisms that can support transboundary water cooperation. By drawing upon a range of theoretical accounts, case studies from the Danube, Orange-Senqu and Mekong rivers, and treaty practice, the book offers practical insights into how these mechanisms can be incorporated into transboundary water agreements.

Competition Law in ASEAN

Ray Steinwall, Attorney, High Court of Australia; Member, Australian Competition Tribunal and Adjunct Professor, UNSW Law Sydney, Australia

'In his sweeping compendium of the competition laws of each of the 10 ASEAN countries, Ray Steinwall writes that in the context of their treaties and cultures, this region "deserves much more attention in the west than it receives". This book should indeed help to secure a place for ASEAN and its competition laws in the jurisprudence of the international competition law community.'

– Eleanor Fox, Professor Emerita, New York University, USA

Key Features:

- Unique thematic approach with jurisdictional details integrated within the analysis
- In-depth explanation and analysis of the competition laws of ASEAN member states
- Expands on the role of ASEAN competition institutions and appellate bodies
- Describes how economic concepts and tools are applied in competition law analysis
- Draws on laws and practice from Australia, the EU, UK and USA to explain and interpret ASEAN competition law

EU Pensions Law

A Commentary and Practitioner's Guide

Edited by Philip Bennett, Durham University, UK and Hans van Meerten, University of Utrecht, the Netherlands

'For those who would like to know more about the IORP II Directive and its operation, this is an interesting book. Certainly the relationship with UK law is plainly fascinating and this even after Brexit. Moreover, the authors make a very interesting and readable comparison between the first IORP Directive and the second IORP Directive. The reader gets an historical legal insight into the evolution between the two Directives.'

– Yves Stevens, University of Leuven, Belgium

Key Features:

- Examines the impact of EU state aid law on pensions
- Discusses the meaning of the 'prudent person rule' in Article 19 of the IORP II Directive
- Provides a detailed article-by-article analysis of the IORP II Directive, in comparison to the relevant articles of the IORP I Directive

Commercial Agreements

Principles and Practice

Jeremy Leong, Acton Law LLC, Singapore

'Jeremy Leong's work on commercial agreements will be a really valuable reference text for practitioners, whether draftspersons or litigators, and whatever their level of experience. Mr Leong draws upon his academic and extensive practical experience to provide original insights into the construction and operation of commercial agreements. Written in a refreshingly engaging style, the work is extensive in its scope, encompassing general matters followed by a comprehensive analysis of a wide range of specific contracts.'

– John Phillips, King's College, London, UK

Key Features:

- Critiques common contractual language from both a litigation and transaction standpoint
- Argues that commercial agreements are the product of 'language-games' played between parties

EU Competition Law and Intellectual Property Rights

Pat Treacy, Former Head of Competition Law, Bristows LLP, London, UK and deputy judge of the High Court of England and Wales (2018–2024)

'An indispensable addition to the toolkit of any practitioner dealing with the complex relationship between EU Competition Law and IPRs. Pat is able to condense her decades-long experience in the field in a very accessible manner. The book is full of practical tips, making it a daily source of inspiration for competition lawyers litigating cases concerning IP related conducts and for IP lawyers needing to understand the competition law constraints in the exercise of IPRs. It will undoubtedly become one of the most often used resources on many desks.'

– Vittorio Cerulli Irelli, Partner, Trevisan & Cuonzo, Italy

Key Features:

- Focus on the Tech and Pharmaceutical sectors
- Extensive commentary on relevant case law and landmark judgments
- Coverage of general principles which underpin competition law and IPRs
- Practical guidance on how lawyers might assess the likelihood of infringement and advise clients accordingly
- Comprehensive treatment of competition rules relating to licence agreements across Patents, Copyright and Trade Marks

DIFC Courts Practice

Second Edition

Edited by Rupert Reed KC, Serle Court and Tom Montagu-Smith KC, 3VB

Acclaim for the first edition:

'DIFC Courts Practice is the first English-language commentary on the Dubai International Financial Centre (DIFC) Courts Rules (RDC). I would not hesitate to recommend this work to anyone involved in court proceedings in the DIFC and who requires guidance on the proper interpretation and application of the RDC, including – without limitation – in arbitration-relevant matters.'

– Gordon Blanke, Arbitration: The International Journal of Arbitration, Mediation and Dispute Management

Key Features:

- A new chapter considering sources of DIFC law and conflicts of law
- New material on both the substantive and procedural law of the DIFC
- New content exploring the relationship between DIFC Courts and other UAE Courts
- Updated chapters which incorporate in-depth analysis of all the leading cases from the last four years
- Authoritative and thoroughly updated commentary on DIFC Courts Rules which includes the identification and discussion of recent judicial decisions on the application of those Rules.

Elgar Guides to Professional Skills for Lawyers

Injunctions in Private Law

David Capper, Queen's University Belfast, UK

'David Capper has drawn from his considerable breadth of knowledge on injunctions and damages in lieu of injunctions to write a book that is both comprehensive and accessible. His text is an important contribution to our understanding, and fills a gap in contemporary scholarship written for judges, lawyers and academics needing to know the current state of the law on injunctions in private law.'

– Jeff Berryman, University of Windsor, Canada

Key Features:

- Clear and coherent analysis of the key legal principles applying to the law on injunctions in private law, which demonstrates how those principles can be applied to new issues as they arise
- Exposition of the current legal tests for the granting of injunctions and how they can operate most effectively
- Analysis of the claimant's need for an immediate remedy and how this can be reconciled with the due process rights of the defendant
- Discussion of prevalent debates in contemporary injunctions law, such as the optimum test for granting interim injunctions and whether damages or injunctions are a more appropriate remedy for the infringement of private rights

Design Law

Global Law and Practice

Edited by Dana Beldiman, Bucerius Law School, Germany, University of California Law San Francisco and Squire Patton Boggs LLP, San Francisco, USA

'Design protection is a vast, chaotic, and puzzling area of law. It is also captivating as fundamental questions lurk here. What aspects of design are protected, how, and for what innovation policy objective? As a result, the law's existing flexibility enables strategic maneuvering. In Design Law: Global Law and Practice, recognized expert in international and comparative intellectual property Dana Beldiman has carefully curated a set of tight essays that examine comparative and international design protection law as well as the cutting-edge issues that these laws must grapple with. The breadth of the topics combined with the depth of analysis makes this an invaluable resource I will turn to again and again. But, as is true with a successful design, the volume as a whole is greater than the sum of its parts. Trends in the law emerge and the comparative project offers us critical insights for addressing the law's inherent conundrums.'

– Christine Haight Farley, American University, USA

Key Features:

- Insights from experienced practitioners and subject matter experts
- Examination of key jurisdictional issues in design law, including practice suggestions
- Comparative legal analysis of the design laws in countries spanning Asia, Australasia, Europe and North America
- Exposition of key concepts in design law, including aesthetic creative freedom, cumulative protection and spare parts
- Coverage of complex, developing issues such as the protection of AI-generated works and the reframing of design law to align with the goals of the circular economy

The Protection of Geographical Indications

Law and Practice (Third Edition)

Michael Blakeney, University of Western Australia

'The book provides substantial international context that helps explain some of the changes to EU GI laws over time. In terms of the substance of the laws, this book takes a slightly different approach to many other IP textbooks. It has a more procedural focus and takes the reader through the provisions of the relevant EU Regulations, adding commentary and insights from the case law as needed.'

– Jocelyn Bosse, IPKat blog

Key updates to this comprehensive third edition include:

- Revised examination of the objectives of GIs protection
- A new chapter exploring Regulation (EU) 2023/2411 on GIs for craft and industrial products
- Analysis of the impact of Brexit on GIs for British products in the EU and EU products in Britain
- New content discussing the protection of wine GIs under the regulation on the Common Organisation of Agricultural Markets (CMO)

FRAND

German Case Law and Global Perspectives

Edited by Peter Georg Picht, University of Zurich, Switzerland, Thomas F. Cotter, University of Minnesota Law School, USA and Erik Habich, University of Zurich and Swiss National Science Foundation, Switzerland

'This book will be a valuable addition to the literature on the licensing and litigation of standards-essential patents on both sides of the Atlantic. Its detailed attention to German FRAND jurisprudence fills a major gap for North American practitioners and scholars, and its comparative approach will likewise help European advocates, judges and scholars to appreciate the different approaches taken to these issues in the United States. This volume is an essential resource for those interested in the evolving international FRAND litigation landscape.'

– Jorge L. Contreras, University of Utah, USA

Key Features:

- Provides clear and detailed analysis on the latest developments in German FRAND/SEP case law, giving readers access to case law which has not previously been available in English.
- Contextualises German SEP/FRAND case law from an international perspective
- Examines the competing approaches to SEP/FRAND issues in prominent jurisdictions
- Presents insightful commentary on how thought leaders and decision-makers perceive the future of SEP/FRAND licensing

Arbitration and Insolvency

Edited by Richard Bamforth and Kushal Gandhi, CMS Cameron McKenna Nabarro Olswang LLP, UK

'The field of international arbitration in and of itself is a complex one, involving as it does different legal regimes, the application of which can yield different outcomes. Layered on top of the substantive law complexities are procedural issues and the brain-twisting questions associated with determining which issues are substantive and which are procedural, while some may be both. These complexities become all the more tangled where one of the parties is insolvent, and may have invoked bankruptcy protections in different jurisdictions. Bamforth and Gandhi's book serves as a guide to untying the Gordian Knot that often presents itself when insolvent parties arbitrate. The chapters individually and collectively are well-organized and didactic. The individual authors' experience as arbitrators and counsel in this complex area shines through and makes the book a deserving addition to any serious practitioner's library.'

– Arif Hyder Ali, Chair, International Arbitration and Public International Group

Key Features:

- Examines international perspectives on insolvency proceedings
- Investigates the New York Convention 1958, the Insolvency Act 1986 and the Arbitration Act 1996
- Assesses whether insolvency is a procedural or substantive matter for the purposes of arbitration
- Provides practical guidance on the commencement of insolvency proceedings for an arbitrable debt
- Analyses the impact of foreign insolvencies on England-seated arbitration and English statutory adjudication

The European Insolvency Regulation and Implementing Legislations

A Commentary

Edited by Gilles Cuniberti, University of Luxembourg and Antonio Leandro, University of Bari Aldo Moro, Italy

'This new Commentary on the European Insolvency Regulation (EIR) provides a helpful introduction, a deep analysis of its provisions in the light of EU and national case law, together with an annex gathering the implementing legislations of many EU countries. Its contributors, mainly scholars of different jurisdictions, approach the provisions of the EIR with a marked and remarkable private international law perspective on the issues of jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition, and cooperation that arise from EU cross-border insolvency proceedings. This Commentary is a much-welcomed resource for practitioners, court judges and scholars dealing with EU cross-border insolvency and restructuring issues.'

– Giorgio Corno, Studio Corno Avvocati, Italy and President, INSOL Europe

Key Features:

- Expansive reference to case-law and legal writings
- Specific attention to private international law issues
- Comprehensive article-by-article analysis of the EIR
- Meticulous explanation by leading scholars in the field to aid understanding of each provision
- Up-to-date breakdown of the main national implementation legislations of the regulation
- Exploration of the interplay between the EIR and the Brussels Ibis Regulation, as well as the relationships with third countries

Handbook on Politics and Society

Edited by Shireen Hassim, Carleton University, Canada and Wits University, South Africa and Anna C. Korteweg, University of Toronto, Canada

'Editors Hassim and Korteweg and their contributors, whose chapters are organized under five themes, offer a crucial resource for understanding contemporary capitalism. Focusing on Africa, South Asia, and Latin America, away from the default Euro-American case studies and experiences usually foregrounded in surveys like these, the Handbook emphasizes decolonial perspectives. It urges readers to rethink governance, resource organization, and the creation of inclusive, sustainable societies as a response to capitalism's polycrisis.'

Challenges of Patenting in the 21st Century

Edited by Nikolaus Thumm, ETH Board, Zurich, Switzerland and Technische Universität Berlin and Knut Blind, Technische Universität Berlin and Fraunhofer Institute for Systems and Innovation Research ISI, Karlsruhe, Germany

'A Modern Guide to Patents is a very engaging, highly contemporary and relevant review of topics at the center of the modern patent system. It draws on the finest minds in the applicable patent-related spaces to assess topics including patent management with an eye on AI and in crisis brought on by pandemics, considerations around PAEs, the ascendancy of trade secrets as a dominant form of IP protection, standards and the current issues associated with standard-essential-patents, as well as the evolving role of enforcement in an era marked by both threats to innovation as well as sharing economies in innovation. A Modern Guide to Patents is a great resource for a wide range of readers interested in the role the patent system plays in inciting innovation for the benefit of mankind.'

Blockchain Politics

Ideology and the Crisis of Social Trust

Kieron O'Hara, University of Southampton, UK

'In an era of polarisation, Blockchain Politics offers a trenchant analysis of the erosion of trust in contemporary democracy. Through a Burkean lens, O'Hara delivers a sobering yet compelling perspective on how the Manichean intransigence of progressive anti-populists (and their populist counterparts) undermines pragmatic, compromise-driven politics.'

Reflexive Urban Governance

Critically Engaging with Urban Policies

Edited by Jurian Edelenbos and Beitske Boonstra, Erasmus University Rotterdam, the Netherlands

This innovative book sets out the concept and potential of reflexive urban governance. It argues that combining the practices of urban governance with continuous reflexivity on the assumptions underlying urban policies allows stakeholders to develop collaborative problem-solving capacity and to learn from the successes, failures and outcomes of policy interventions.

Robust Public Governance in a Turbulent Era

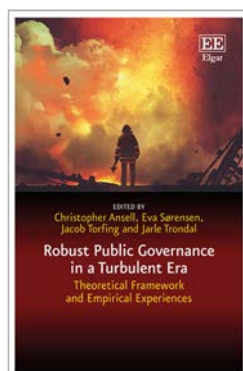

Theoretical Framework and Empirical Experiences

Edited by Christopher Ansell, University of California, Berkeley, USA, Eva Sørensen, Jacob Torfing, Roskilde University, Denmark and Jarle Trondal, University of Oslo and University of Agder, Norway

'Over the past two decades a series of minor and mega-crises, from climate change to global pandemics and financial crises, have challenged governments around the world, bringing the concept of policy robustness to the forefront of considerations of policy and governance. Rather than think of such events as 'one-off', in this book Christopher Ansell, Eva Sørensen, Jacob Torfing and Jarle Trondal have brought a set of authors to bear on thinking about how governments and policies can be made stronger and better prepared for the next crisis. With the negative experiences many countries encountered during the COVID-19 pandemic still ringing in our ears, this task is of the utmost importance.'

Handbook on Institutions and Complexity

Edited by Eric Alston, University of Colorado Boulder, Lee J. Alston, NBER, USA and Bernardo Mueller, University of Brasília, Brazil

'The Handbook on Institutions and Complexity is a vital resource for any practitioner of modern political economy and social theory. Young scholars will have a hard time envisioning a time when the social sciences strove to develop an "institutionally antiseptic" theory of society. In response to this sterile vision of the social sciences, New Institutional Economics was developed and the powerful framework of analysis provided had wide acceptance in economics, politics and history. But translating the insights into the scientific strategy of modern social science often had the result for tractability of reasons of flattening the notion of institutions matter to its most simplistic rendering. The Handbook challenges that rendering and insists on the essential complexity of both the world we are trying to study and the theoretical framework we use to study that complex reality. The chapters inside this book represent foundational contributions to that effort.'

Social Innovation in the Commoning of Scarce Land Resources

Edited by Frank Moulaert, Pieter Van den Broeck, KU Leuven, Belgium, Pavlos-Marinou Delladetsimas, Harokopio University, Greece and Liana Simmons, Political Scientist and Food Activist, Italy

*'This magisterial work will surely become a landmark in the scholarship of Landed Commons. It deftly synthesizes a vast literature while opening up fresh vistas of understanding, balancing general lessons with complicated details. The result is a rich, broad-spectrum portrait of Commons that includes a history of land ownership, contemporary case studies, and attention to the micro-social dynamics of commoning, as well as critical lessons (and limitations) of Ostrom's Commons research, anarchism, political ecology, and Marxism. ## Advanced Introduction to Political Jurisprudence

Martin Loughlin, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

In this Advanced Introduction, Martin Loughlin provides a concise analysis of political jurisprudence, a powerful but relatively neglected school of thought that offers a compelling account of the relationship between law and politics in the modern world. It shows how political jurisprudence continues to yield acute insights into the politico-legal challenges of our times.

Small Business Innovation in the Public Interest

A Study of the U.S. National Institutes of Health

Albert N. Link, formerly University of North Carolina at Greensboro and Alan C. O'Connor, RTI International, USA

'This book offers an historical appraisal of the public policy emphasis on small innovative firms using as an illustration the SBIR program at the National Cancer Institute and the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute of the U.S. National Institutes of Health. The authors do an excellent job in blending the evolution of socioeconomic arguments and firm-level survey evidence of the outcomes of SBIR support. A fresh and super interesting read for students of science and technology policy evaluation.'

Introduction to Regulation and Governance

Martino Maggetti, University of Lausanne, Switzerland

'Martino Maggetti's Introduction to Regulation and Governance is an essential and profoundly enlightening guide for navigating the complex interplay between regulation and governance in addressing societal challenges. Covering foundational theories, the evolution of regulatory state and agencies, the importance of networked, intermediated and transnational regulation, as well as alternatives, challenges, and future directions like AI and ecological governance, this book seamlessly blends an excellent command of regulatory scholarship, practical insights, and global case studies. A must-read for researchers and students, policymakers, and anyone invested in understanding regulatory governance's pivotal role in societal progress.'

Teaching Security Studies

Rita Floyd, University of Birmingham, UK

'Rita Floyd's Teaching Security Studies is a valuable and well-written addition to textbooks in the field, aimed not at students but teachers in university settings. It provides exactly what new instructors need: an excellent, hands-on entry point to teaching international security. It is a highly accessible book that shows how to navigate the challenges of diversity in theories, viewpoints, and students.'

Government Stability in Comparative Perspective

Patterns and Dynamics Across 21 Democracies

Marco Imbrota, University of Siena, Italy

'This book assesses a crucial topic in comparative politics, which despite receiving much attention since the very beginning of the discipline, still suffers from gaps. "Will it last?" is as important a question concerning government as "Who gets in?" and "Who gets what?". Imbrota's comprehensive analysis helps close this gap.'

Public Policies for Hybrid Governance

Edited by Jarmo Vakkuri, Tampere University, Finland and Norwegian School of Economics, Norway, Jan-Erik Johanson, Tampere University, Finland, Rómulo Pinheiro, University of Agder, Norway and Tero Erkkilä, University of Helsinki, Finland

'Finally, we have a book that positions itself within the Venn diagram of two vital aspects of contemporary governance: the intersection of public values and hybrid government. Commendably, the volume recognizes the many ways that diverse, innovative institutions can enhance the quality of governance. The book will prove valuable for researchers and for strategy-focused managers.'

The Comparative Politics of Direct Democracy

Matt Qvortrup, Australian National University and LUISS Guido Carli University of Rome, Italy

'I will gladly put aside many things to read a new book by Matt Qvortrup. I'll learn something, of course, but more importantly, I'll enjoy the process. So it is with this volume, which disrupts what we thought we knew about direct democracy. Have a pen in hand – you will find yourself taking notes and wishing that you could write like this.'

Research Handbook on the Sociology of Knowledge

Edited by Fran M. Collyer, University of Wollongong, Australia

'In addition to providing brilliant syntheses and significant advances on the "classical" tradition of sociology of knowledge, this Handbook is characterized by a strong desire to decentralize the field. By including reflections on the struggles surrounding the canon, the coloniality of knowledge and ways of negotiating its legitimacy, it helps to broaden the field with new references and new avenues.'

Handbook of Social Psychology

Edited by Lisa Slattery Walker, University of North Carolina at Charlotte and Gretchen Peterson, University of Memphis, USA

'This is a timely and impressive volume. It brings together an excellent cast of leading scholars from the tradition of sociological social psychology, which aims to understand the interconnections of "social structure and social interaction." The chapters nicely convey the unifying themes, distinctive scope, and wide-ranging applications of sociological approaches to social psychology. The chapters are well-grounded in relevant research literatures while also being much more than simple reviews of that work. Each chapter has an attractive "freshness" that stimulates the reader to think beyond what has been done and to see new connections and opportunities for development. Importantly, the volume also charts important new areas for investigation that bridge to other academic disciplines. This Handbook will be an invaluable resource for any scholar or student who is concerned with the interface of social structures and social interactions, regardless of their academic area or discipline.'

OPEN ACCESS Social Sustainability in Ageing Welfare States

Edited by Maria Vaalavuo, Finnish Institute for Health and Welfare, Finland, Kenneth Nelson, University of Oxford, UK and Kati Kuitto, Finnish Centre for Pensions, Finland

'In recent years, a significant body of literature has addressed the so-called "double transition" involving technological and environmental changes, as well as the role of the welfare state. This book makes a timely contribution to discussion regarding the transformations of welfare states and their social implications, as it highlights a third and profound transition that accompanies the first two: the demographic shift. The book offers an innovative analysis of how various welfare state institutions can enhance social integration and well-being in aging societies. It provides very valuable scientific insights and policy recommendations on the importance of diverse social policies in sustaining and promoting social sustainability.'

Handbook of Literacy in Families and Communities

Edited by Patricia A. Edwards, Michigan State University, Catherine Compton-Lilly, University of South Carolina, USA and Guofang Li, University of British Columbia, Canada

'This Handbook promises to be a new landmark in the field of family literacy studies. It includes an impressive group of researchers, teacher educators, and mother/scholars focused on equitable flows of knowledge between families, teachers, community programs, PK-12 school systems, and teacher education. The Handbook is accessible and thoughtfully compiled and features a diverse array of approaches and empirical research grounded in history and relevant to recent developments in the field. Collectively, the authors shine a light on the expanding relevance of family literacy scholarship in our global, multilingual world. Essential reading for experienced and novice researchers and educational practitioners.'

NEW IN PAPERBACK Rethinking Neighborhoods

Connections and Cohesion

William A.V. Clark, University of California, Los Angeles, US

'Neighborhoods matter! Drawing on a long career of urban scholarship, this book by Bill Clark provides a fascinating review of the social science on neighborhoods: how they emerge and change, how people sort into them, and why this matters for social mobility, health, general wellbeing, and society as a whole. In the face of concern that work-from-home will reshape urban life, Rethinking Neighborhoods: Connections and Cohesion shows how neighborhoods have and will continue to be an extremely important geography for understanding society.'

Migrant and Refugee Access to Health Systems

Challenging (Im)mobilities in Healthcare

Edited by Luca Follis, University of Sussex, Karolina Follis, Lancaster University and Nicola Burns, University of Glasgow, UK

'Bringing together the literature on borders, healthcare, and mobility justice, this book reveals how people on the move must navigate the "sedentary bias" of modern health systems. Eye-opening case studies depict the real stakes of emerging social, political and technological systems that block healthcare for many people under hostile border regimes. The book urges us all to question how health systems and border regimes deny care to migrants and refugees who are stigmatized as "undeserving" – despite national legal rights to healthcare and global human rights to health for all people.'

Rethinking Sport and Society

Elizabeth C.J. Pike, University of Hertfordshire, UK

'In a field full of books on the topic, Professor Pike brings us something refreshingly new and equally important. True to her extensive experience and reflexivity, Pike offers us thirteen "conversations" from a diversity of voices and perspectives rarely given time in the sociology of sport and we are undoubtedly the better for it.'

The Elgar Companion to the Arts and Global Multiculturalism

Edited by the late Sneja Gunew, formerly University of British Columbia, Canada, Nikos Papastergiadis, formerly University of Melbourne, Fazal Rizvi, University of Melbourne and Paula Muraca, Deakin University Melbourne, Australia

'What follows the policy fatigue and political disenchantment which has plagued multiculturalism in recent decades? Can multiculturalism be reclaimed to serve different cultural agendas? Heeding Sneja Gunew's call to go "back to the future", the contributors to this volume explore the aesthetic, activist and cosmopolitan roots of multicultural practice. In reimagining the dynamism lost to the managerial capture of the term, their work stands as a lasting tribute to Gunew's vision for better ways to live with cultural difference.'

Handbook on Cities and Crime

Edited by Dietrich Oberwittler, Max Planck Institute for the Study of Crime, Security and Law, Germany and Rebecca Wickes, Griffith University, Australia

'Oberwittler and Wickes have brought together an outstanding international team of scholars and curated a fabulous collection of works for their Handbook on Cities and Crime. Situating the chapters in the context of international crime trends in urban spaces and thoughtfully drawing on historical theories on crime and place, the Handbook makes a significant global contribution to the ecology of crime literature.'

Hybrid Social Work

Contested Knowledge, Fragile Collaboration and Social Citizenship

Edited by Ivan Harsløf, Simon Innvær, Dag Jenssen, Wenche Bekken, Oslo Metropolitan University, Norway and Ingo Bode, University of Kassel, Germany

'Prominent scholars of social work from Europe and elsewhere have come together to create a compelling volume highlighting the significance of what they call "hybrid social work." Grounded in a strong theoretical frame and buttressed by informative empirical research, the various chapters of this book show that hybrid social work is an important antidote to the ascendent clinical approach to social work. Hybrid Social Work crosses boundaries as needed and places social work practice in a broader context. All social work should take heed and learn from this fine collection.'

Commodity Chains under Pressure

Resilience through Coping, Adaptation, and Transformation

Edited by Lara M. Espeter, Technische Universität Berlin and Linda Hering, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, Germany

'In a time of multiple crises, this timely book provides an insightful exploration into the vulnerabilities of agri-food chains around the world, offering a rich interdisciplinary perspective on how external shocks reshape these chains, and what options actors have to increase resilience. I believe this is essential reading for those seeking to understand the complex interdependencies and evolving challenges in agri-food chains.'

Why publish with Elgar?

A unique publishing experience

As an independent press, Edward Elgar Publishing offers a uniquely responsive service tailored to each project.

From initial commissioning, through to marketing the finished book, our dedicated teams work closely with our authors – whether newly published or well established – to keep them involved and informed.

We are dedicated to reducing the impact of our publishing on the environment and are proud to have signed up to the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Publishers Compact. We also work in partnership with organisations such as EIFL and GOALI to enable access to knowledge in developing and transition economy countries.

Your work will be part of a broad, diverse and inclusive list which reflects the wide range of research and perspectives within the subject areas we publish.

Please do get in touch to discuss your writing plans:

In good company

Your book will sit in good company – many of our authors are recognised as leading scholars and professionals in their fields. Numbered amongst them are several Nobel Laureates. Many of our books have won prestigious awards and consistently receive global acclaim for their originality, quality and impact.

Effective and efficient decision-making

We use peer-review by subject specialists to ensure that our research monographs meet a high standard of scholarship. We respond quickly to proposal submissions and aim to complete our assessments within a few weeks of receipt. Your dedicated Commissioning Editor will keep you fully informed throughout the process.

Production quality

Our experienced production team will produce a book you will be proud of. We use UK based copy-editors to ensure our manuscripts are of optimum quality and are finished to the very highest standard. Your Desk Editor will be in close liaison during the processing and production stages, involving you in important decisions such as book cover design.

International dissemination & marketing

We work with academics, booksellers, professionals and libraries around the globe, reaching over 140 countries.

From e-catalogues and conferences to our eBook platform, email campaigns and social media channels, information on your book will be disseminated widely by our international marketing team. Our well-established global reputation will get your book noticed and we will ensure it is readily available across the world.

We recognise the importance of getting your work cited. To maximise visibility we endeavour to get our books indexed in Scopus and Clarivate's Web of Science.

Society partners & international organisations

Edward Elgar Publishing enjoys successful collaboration with a number of society partners including the Asian Development Bank, United Nations International Development Organization and the IUCN Academy of Environmental Law.

Our partners choose us for our reliable and responsible service, the majority publishing with us over many years, benefiting from the continuity of service.
