Volume 2 of the Critical Edition's 'Essays and Articles' (EA2) spans Alfred North Whitehead's writings from his early involvement with the Aristotelian Society in 1915 to his post-retirement years until 1947. This volume encompasses both lesser-known essays and those published in academic journals and collections such as The Aims of Education (1929) and Essays in Science and Philosophy (1947). Previously plagued by numerous variants complicating scholarly referencing, EA2 provides a definitive, chronologically ordered and critically edited collection of Whitehead's non-monograph works, establishing itself as the essential scholarly resource for studying and citing these essays.

Hannah Arendt and Political Glory

Earthly Immortality in an Age of Superfluosity

Peg Birmingham

Hardback £90.00

ISBN: 9781399552523. 256pp. 216x138mm.

November 2025. Also available in PDF, Epub

In this book, Peg Birmingham argues that privileging the event of natality and new beginnings in Hannah Arendt's political thought overlooks her central problematic with the modern and contemporary production of economic and political superfluosity, treating all life and the earth itself as disposable.

In the face of this unrelenting production, that will not stop until it has destroyed all worlds and the earth itself, Birmingham shows that Arendt's primary concern is with radically rethinking the Greek notion of immortality and its heroic glory as earthly immortality. This is rooted in a new form of universal solidarity with those who have been produced as superfluous and consigned to holes of oblivion at sea, desert crossings, prisons and camps.

Unfolding the Deleuze Seminars, 1970-1987

Summaries and Commentary

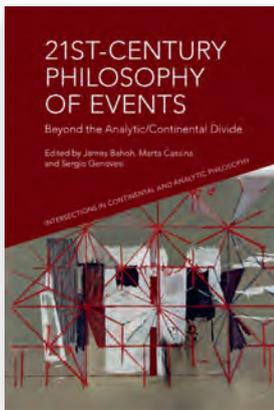

Charles J. Stivale

Hardback £125.00

ISBN: 9781399557214. 448pp. 234x156mm.

December 2025. Also available in PDF, Epub

The texts in this volume - summaries of the 216 seminars taught by Gilles Deleuze - provide unique insight into the latter half of Deleuze's teaching career. Deleuze understood his seminars as a laboratory for developing his ongoing research and this volume is a guide to the creative becomings in the development of his philosophical works through teaching. From Anti-Oedipus (1972) to The Fold: Leibniz and the Baroque (1987), Deleuze examined a wide range of philosophical perspectives in pursuit of successive thematic topics. These summaries and commentaries serve as incitement for further research, allowing readers familiar with Deleuze's work to find new angles of approach and providing greater access to readers coming to his work for the first time.

21st-Century Philosophy of Events

Beyond the Analytic/Continental Divide

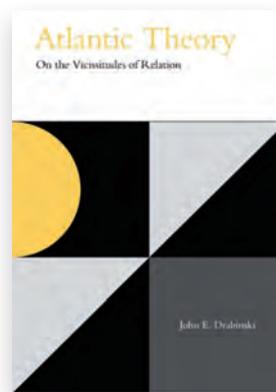

Edited by James Bahoh, Marta Cassina, Sergio Genovesi

Hardback £95.00

ISBN: 9781399539777. 320pp.
234x156mm. August 2025.

Part of Intersections in Continental and Analytic Philosophy series
Also available in PDF, Epub

The concept of the 'event' has been significant in both analytic and continental philosophy since the mid-20th century, yet traditionally, these discussions remained isolated within their respective domains due to the analytic-continental divide. Recent philosophical efforts aim to bridge this divide, focusing on defining the nature, reality and significance of events. This book brings together contemporary philosophers to rethink event theory through a post-divide lens, incorporating advances in ontology and metaphysics. It also features a previously unpublished appendix by the late Jean-Luc Nancy, further enriching the discourse on the philosophy of events.

Atlantic Theory

On the Vicissitudes of Relation

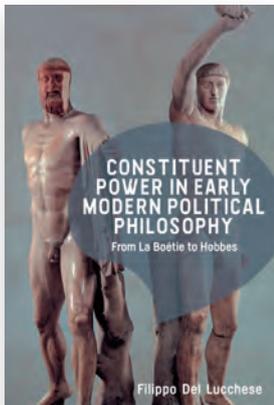

John E. Drabinski

Hardback £95.00

ISBN: 9781399549271. 320pp.
190x135mm. October 2025.

Part of Incitements series
Also available in PDF, Epub

This collection of essays examines the profound impact of empire history on Atlantic intellectual thought through critical analyses of key theorists such as Emmanuel Levinas, Frantz Fanon, Richard Wright, James Baldwin, Angela Davis, Léopold Senghor and Édouard Glissant. These comparative readings form a distinct portrait of Atlantic theory, exploring complex colonial power dynamics, memory of atrocities and the aftermath of empire. The work highlights how the oppressed navigate violent conditions with creativity, providing a deep insight into the intellectual movements shaping responses to historical and ongoing imperial influences.

Constituent Power in Early Modern Political Philosophy

From La Boétie to Hobbes

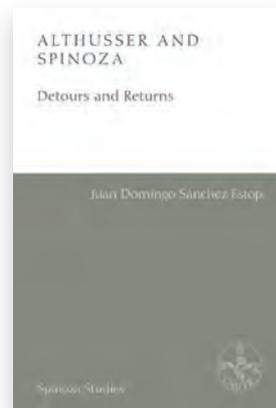

Filippo Del Lucchese

Hardback £90.00

ISBN: 9781399554732. 240pp.
234x156mm. November 2025.

Also available in PDF, Epub

Filippo Del Lucchese provides a detailed exploration of constituent power in his examination of influential ideas from six pivotal philosophers of the 16th and 17th centuries: La Boétie, Bodin, Lipsius, Campanella, Suárez and Hobbes. The book analyses how these thinkers shaped political philosophy concerning political authority and constitutional frameworks. Del Lucchese contextualises their perspectives within the broader historical and contemporary debates on democracy, sovereignty and the balance between political foundation and institutional stability. This work offers crucial insights into the development of political concepts that continue to influence modern legal and political theory.

Althusser and Spinoza

Detours and Returns

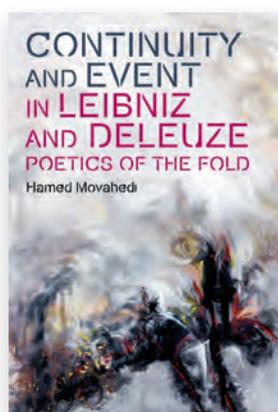

Juan Domingo Sánchez Estop,
Edited by Dan Taylor, Translated
by Élise Hendrick

Hardback £100.00

ISBN: 9781399539890. 304pp.
234x156mm. November 2025.

Part of Spinoza Studies series
Also available in PDF, Epub

Presents a compelling argument that Spinoza significantly influenced Althusser's rethinking of Marxism through key philosophical concepts. The book details five crucial 'detours and returns' between Althusser and Spinoza, exploring Spinoza's anti-humanism, theory of reading, immanent causality, politics of the conjuncture and his rejection of determinism. Estop uncovers an 'Althusserian Spinoza', emphasising his relevance in practical and political realms.

Continuity and Event in Leibniz and Deleuze

Poetics of the Fold

Hamed Movahedi

Hardback £105.00

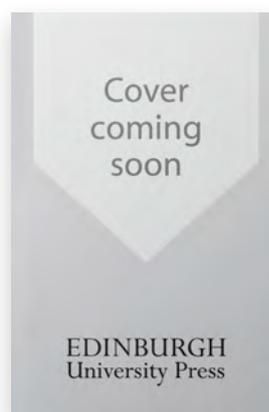

ISBN: 9781399550666. 368pp.

234x156mm. December 2025.

Part of Plateaus - New Directions in Deleuze Studies series

Also available in PDF, Epub

Hamed Movahedi offers a Deleuzian exploration of continuity and event through comparative readings of The Fold, Difference and Repetition and Logic of Sense. By analysing The Fold alongside Leibniz, Movahedi uncovers a new concept of continuity characterised by heterogeneity and ontological inseparability. This concept challenges traditional perceptions and manifests in Deleuze's philosophy of genesis as seen in Difference and Repetition and in the genesis of language in Logic of Sense. Movahedi presents Deleuze's philosophical narrative as a continuum that intertwines with the poetic and political, revealing a foundational approach to genesis across various domains.

Difference and Alterity in La Boétie, Montaigne, Spinoza and Mendelssohn

Willi Goetschel

Hardback £95.00

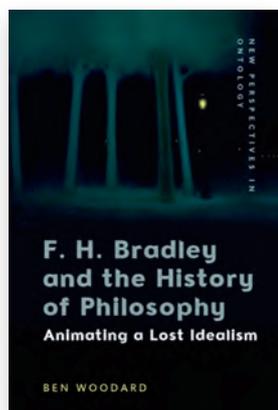

ISBN: 9781399545501. 288pp.

234x156mm. December 2025.

Part of Cycles series

Also available in PDF, Epub

This book examines a group of thinkers from the Renaissance to the Enlightenment—La Boétie, Montaigne, Spinoza and Mendelssohn—whose works on difference and alterity gain new relevance in contemporary debates. Rather than viewing their contributions as mere historical artifacts within canonical perspectives, the book presents their ideas as vital resources for transcending current political constructs of tolerance, charity and recognition. These philosophers advocate for a profound understanding of otherness that fundamentally redefines our existence. They explore the deep interconnection between self and other, shedding light on concepts such as 'voluntary servitude', identity and difference, thus offering radical ways to reconsider these relationships.

F. H. Bradley and the History of Philosophy

Animating a Lost Idealism

Ben Woodard

Hardback £95.00

ISBN: 9781399544481. 208pp.

234x156mm. November 2025.

Part of New Perspectives in Ontology series

Also available in PDF, Epub

F. H. Bradley, a key figure in British Idealism, presented a nuanced form of idealism that has been overlooked for nearly a century. His work challenges the simplistic division of the world into rational segments, focusing instead on the complex interplay between our inner lives and external experiences. This book revisits Bradley's core philosophical challenge: bridging the gap between personal experience and the underlying reality. It underscores the relevance of Bradley's ideas in modern philosophical contexts, influencing post-Continental philosophy and enriching discussions around Spinoza, Hegel and contemporary debates in analytic philosophy regarding metaphysics.

Freedom to Know

Creating Community with Ambedkar, Du Bois, Iqbal, Ramabai and Tagore

Monika Kirloskar-Steinbach

Hardback £90.00

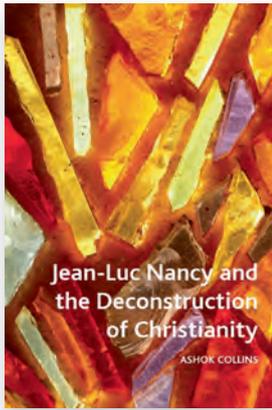

ISBN: 9781399550536. 232pp.

216x138mm. October 2025.

Part of Thinking World Philosophies series

Also available in PDF, Epub

In her book, Monika Kirloskar-Steinbach explores how thinkers like Bhimrao Ambedkar (1891-1956), W.E.B. Du Bois (1868-1963), Mohammed Iqbal (1877-1938), Pandita Ramabai (1858-1922) and Rabindranath Tagore (1861-1941) addressed epistemic oppression and its roots in coloniality. She examines their efforts to create a liberated intellectual space free from academic dominance, enabling equal participation and the development of new, resistant concepts. This study highlights their contributions to understanding and combating the coloniality of being, offering insights into intellectual resistance and freedom.

Jean-Luc Nancy and the Deconstruction of Christianity

Ashok Collins

Hardback £90.00

ISBN: 9781399540711. 200pp.
234x156mm. October 2025.
Part of Crosscurrents series
Also available in PDF, Epub

In this book, Ashok Collins delves into the transformative impact of Jean-Luc Nancy's figurative philosophical style, which engages with Derridean deconstruction and radically explores the concept of différance. Collins illuminates how Nancy reimagines Christianity not as isolated, but as deeply interwoven with philosophical inquiry. This analysis propels a bold new look at the 'turn to religion' within deconstruction, pushing the discourse beyond traditional limits and opening new avenues for debate and reflection on the interplay between philosophy and religion.

Kant's Critical Imagination

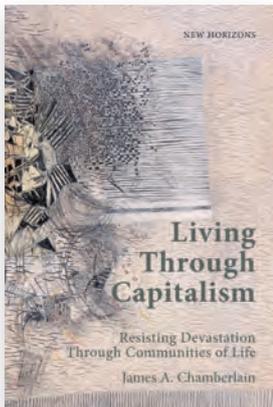

The Logic of Schematism

Cody Staton

Hardback £90.00

ISBN: 9781399554855. 248pp.
216x138mm. November 2025.
Also available in PDF, Epub

This book explores a pivotal moment in modern philosophy, focusing on Kant's transformation of philosophical paradigms through his theory of imagination. Cody Staton argues that Kant's characterisation of the imagination as a mediator between the self and the world established a lasting philosophical perspective. Kant posits that the imagination is fundamental to all mental faculties, influencing our concepts of God, the soul, natural beauty, art and life itself. Staton's analysis demonstrates how Kant's theory positions the imagination as central not only to philosophical thought but also to the broader human experience.

Living Through Capitalism

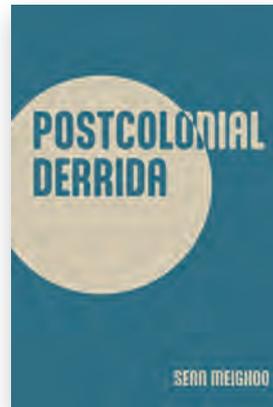

Resisting Devastation Through Communities of Life

James A. Chamberlain

Hardback £90.00

ISBN: 9781399552745. 208pp.
234x156mm. October 2025.
Part of New Horizons series
Also available in PDF, Epub

James A. Chamberlain's book critiques capitalism's exploitation of life, highlighting its role in environmental harm and widespread suffering. The book argues that forming communities of life is an effective resistance, proposing alternatives focused on satisfying the needs of all beings and prioritising life growth over economic expansion. He suggests abolishing private property for shared ownership, embracing post-work politics and recognising inter-species interdependence to foster robust multi-species communities. This work presents a critical view on the ethical implications of capitalism and offers a framework for more sustainable and equitable living.

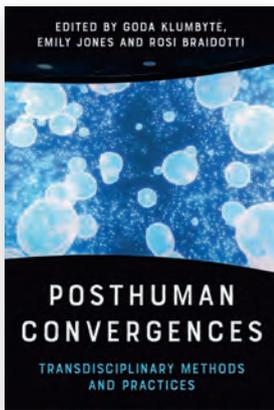

Postcolonial Derrida

Sean Meighoo

Hardback £95.00

ISBN: 9781399554817. 240pp.
234x156mm. November 2025.
Also available in PDF, Epub

Jacques Derrida, a towering figure in philosophy, literary studies and cultural criticism, has a significant yet underexplored connection with postcolonial theory. This book highlights Derrida's deep engagement with key postcolonial themes such as colonialism, race, migration and diaspora. Opting for a thematic exploration over biographical details, the work positions Derrida alongside a broad spectrum of anticolonial and postcolonial thinkers from the Caribbean, Africa and Asia, as well as African American and French feminists. This postcolonial reading of Derrida enriches the understanding of his philosophical inquiries and their relevance to contemporary global issues.

Posthuman Convergences

Transdisciplinary Methods and Practices

Edited by Goda Klumbytė, Emily Jones and Rosi Braidotti

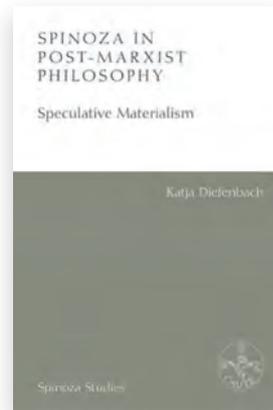

Hardback £100.00

ISBN: 9781399512664. 408pp.

234x156mm. August 2025.

Also available in PDF, Epub

Posthuman Convergences explores the expanding influence of posthumanism beyond the humanities, involving disciplines such as marine biology, computer science, social sciences, legal studies and more. This volume demonstrates the application of transdisciplinary posthuman methods and practices, emphasising the critical role of the humanities in addressing contemporary global issues. At a time when the value of humanities is debated—evidenced by cuts in academic departments—this book showcases diverse approaches that rethink pressing challenges of our era, underscoring the humanities’ indispensable contributions to transdisciplinary research and problem-solving.

Spinoza in Post-Marxist Philosophy

Speculative Materialism

Katja Diefenbach, Translated by Gerrit Jackson

Hardback £125.00

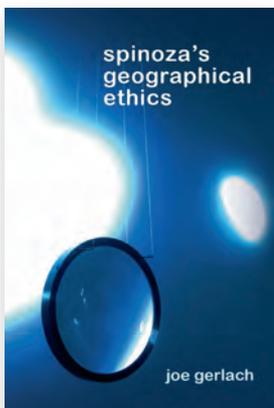

ISBN: 9781399537490. 528pp.

234x156mm. November 2025.

Part of Spinoza Studies series

Also available in PDF, Epub

This book explores the diverse interpretations of Baruch de Spinoza, exploring his evolution from a seventeenth-century philosopher to a twentieth-century materialist influencing Marxism. It examines post-Marxist readings by figures such as Althusser, Negri, Balibar and Deleuze, focusing on Spinoza’s concepts of the differentiability of being, self-forming matter, positive affects and the multitude’s self-governance. Through these analyses, the book revises continental philosophy’s portrayal of relationships between matter, affect, thought and collective power, presenting a nuanced understanding of Spinoza’s impact on modern philosophical discourses.

Spinoza’s Geographical Ethics

Joe Gerlach

Hardback £90.00

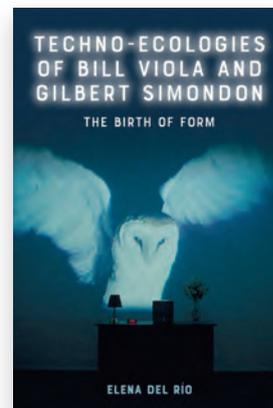

ISBN: 9781399544634. 224pp.

234x156mm. December 2025.

Part of Geotheory series

Also available in PDF, Epub

This book delves into Baruch Spinoza’s philosophy, reinterpreting his views on space, nature and the world through a geographical lens. It presents essays that explore themes like aesthetics and politics, highlighting Spinoza’s innovative rethinking of earth and world. The book argues that Spinoza’s ideas provide essential tools for addressing modern societal, environmental and political challenges, advancing Spinozist scholarship and redefining his contributions to contemporary thought. It emphasises the importance of a geographical perspective on Spinoza for ethics, politics and ecology.

Techno-Ecologies of Bill Viola and Gilbert Simondon

The Birth of Form

Elena del Río

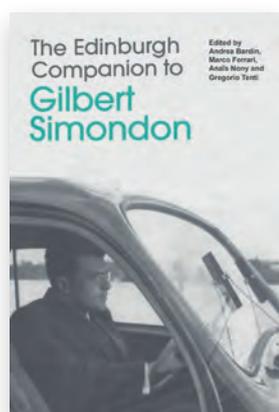

Hardback £95.00

ISBN: 9781399554770. 312pp.

234x156mm. November 2025.

Also available in PDF, Epub

Elena del Río’s book examines the techno-aesthetic interplay between form, matter, nature and culture through the philosophies of Viola and Simondon. Drawing on process philosophy figures like Ruyer, Deleuze, Guattari and Massumi, del Río explores Viola’s art, revealing a politics that merges nature with the affects. This transcends conventional environmental politics, advocating a holistic ecological perspective that spans from Simondon to Massumi. The book highlights the significance of this nature-culture continuum in addressing psycho-social and environmental crises, emphasising the activation of collective energies as a key strategy.

The Edinburgh Companion to Gilbert Simondon

Edited by Andrea Bardin, Marco Ferrari, Anaïs Nony and Gregorio Tenti

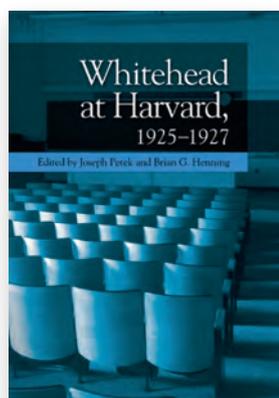

Hardback £160.00

ISBN: 9781399541077. 440pp.

244x170mm. October 2025.

Also available in PDF, Epub

The Edinburgh Companion to Gilbert Simondon offers a comprehensive introduction to Simondon's extensive work and philosophical approach. This volume thoroughly explores various aspects of Simondon's contributions, showcasing their relevance and innovative impact across multiple disciplines such as philosophy, psychology, politics and more. It is structured into four sections, each featuring essays by seasoned scholars who have engaged with Simondon's concepts over several years. The topics discussed include individuation, technology and the transindividual, among others, providing a detailed interpretation of his complex philosophical framework for researchers interested in interdisciplinary studies.

Whitehead at Harvard, 1925-1927

Edited by Joseph Petek and Brian G. Henning

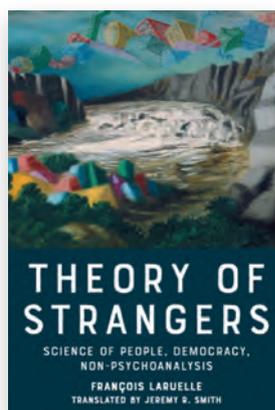

Hardback £95.00

ISBN: 9781399550109. 264pp.

234x156mm. August 2025.

Also available in PDF, Epub

This volume brings together leading Whitehead scholars who re-examine his early philosophical efforts through the lens of his 1925-1927 Harvard lectures. These lectures provide fresh insights into Whitehead's thought process during the pivotal period between Science and the Modern World and Process and Reality. The book explores how these lectures challenge or reinforce existing interpretations of Whitehead's work, investigates his rare engagement with social ethics and discusses their role as a bridge between his mathematical and philosophical endeavors. This comprehensive analysis offers a new perspective on Whitehead's development and the integration of his intellectual pursuits.

Theory of Strangers

Science of People, Democracy, Non-Psychoanalysis

François Laruelle, Translated by Jeremy R. Smith

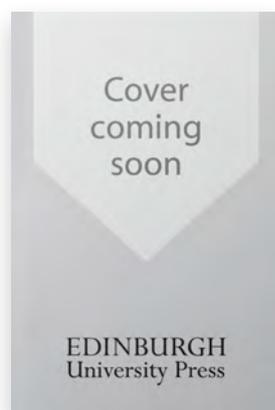

Hardback £100.00

ISBN: 9781399549233. 328pp.

234x156mm. January 2026.

Also available in PDF, Epub

Originally published in 1995, this book marks a pivotal moment in the evolution of François Laruelle's non-philosophy towards a democratic and emancipatory vision. Laruelle applies his non-philosophical framework to dissect philosophy's interactions with the humanities, politics and psychoanalysis. Central to his argument is the concept of the "Stranger," through which he advocates for a democratic reformation of thought, steered by the multitudes. He introduces a new field of thought named Universal Humanity, spanning three pathways: a science of people distinct from humanism, a democracy distinct from politics and a form of non-psychoanalysis that develops a Universal Unconscious.

The Edinburgh Critical History of Early Modern and Enlightenment Philosophy

Edited by Jack Stetter, Stephen Howard

Hardback £160.00

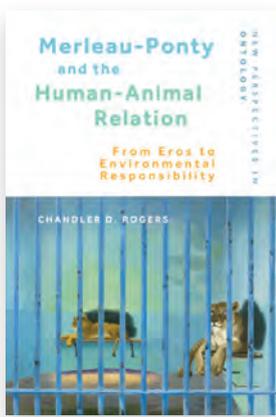

ISBN: 9781399519298. 392pp.

244x170mm. December 2025.

Part of The Edinburgh Critical History of Philosophy series

Also available in PDF, Epub

Written by a team of leading international scholars, this book examines a crucial period of philosophy from the perspective of themes and lines of thought that cut across authorial, disciplinary and national boundaries. Its fresh approach opens up new ways for specialists and students to conceptualise the history of early modern and Enlightenment thought within philosophy, politics, religious studies and literature. This critical reference work takes a problem-based approach to the history of philosophy, highlighting the continued richness and relevance of sixteenth- to eighteenth-century philosophy.

Merleau-Ponty and the Human-Animal Relation

From Eros to Environmental Responsibility

Chandler D. Rogers

Hardback £90.00

ISBN: 9781399544375. 144pp.

234x156mm. January 2026.

Part of New Perspectives in Ontology series

Also available in PDF, Epub

This book addresses contemporary environmental crises and the disconnection people feel from nature, linking these issues to a lack of intimacy in human-animal relations. Building upon Merleau-Ponty's thoughts on animal desire, it aims to deepen and expand ethical considerations in how humans relate to animals. The book transitions from an aesthetic to an ethical and ultimately ethico-religious perspective, keeping current environmental issues at the forefront. It proposes a way to heal the human-animal relationship by evolving our desires from eros to environmental responsibility, aiming for a respectful coexistence with our own animality and that of other species.

Hobbes's Materialist Agenda

The Politics of Early Modern Science

Andrea Bardin

Hardback £90.00

ISBN: 9781399540872. 208pp.

234x156mm. January 2026.

Part of Cycles series

Also available in PDF, Epub

Andrea Bardin's book provides a profound analysis of Hobbes's political thought by placing it within the context of his 'materialist agenda' and its contrast with Descartes's ideals. Bardin explores the shifts in Hobbes's views by linking them to the intellectual milieu that influenced his materialist ontology and epistemology. He examines classical influences such as Thucydides and Aristotle and the broader materialist perspectives shaped by Bacon and in opposition to Descartes. The book also delves into Hobbes's interactions with contemporaries in the Mersenne circle, including debates with Descartes and Gassendi, thereby asserting the significance of materialist approaches in critiquing the idealist underpinnings of early modern philosophy.

Catherine Malabou and Contemporary French Literature and Film

Witnessing Plasticity

Benjamin Dalton

Hardback £95.00

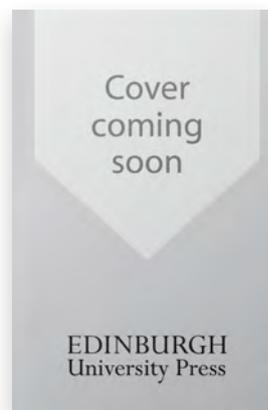

ISBN: 9781399540551. 256pp.

234x156mm. January 2026.

Part of Crosscurrents series

Also available in PDF, Epub

This book examines the theme of plasticity in the works of French philosopher Catherine Malabou and its representations in contemporary literature and film. It discusses how concepts of neuroplasticity manifest in various artistic forms, such as the transformational figures in Leos Carax's films, the evolving bodies in Marie Darrieussecq's works, the traumatic changes in Marie NDiaye's fiction and the fluid identities in Alain Guiraudie's narratives. It argues that these cultural explorations extend beyond scientific understandings of biological plasticity, offering new ethical and creative perspectives on human potential and transformation.

The Philosophy of Isabelle Stengers

Grant Maxwell

Hardback £100.00

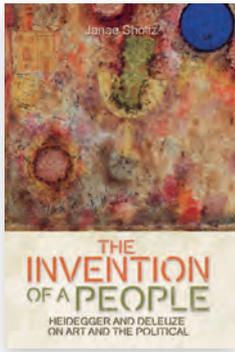

ISBN: 9781399540636. 320pp.

234x156mm. January 2026.

Also available in PDF, Epub

This book provides a comprehensive overview of Isabelle Stengers' extensive intellectual contributions over four decades, covering diverse fields such as physics, psychoanalysis, ecology and the history of philosophy. It positions her within a philosophical lineage that includes notable thinkers like Spinoza, Leibniz, James, Bergson, Guattari, Deleuze and Whitehead. It explores Stengers' constructivism, particularly how it challenges the hierarchical binaries typical of modern thought, offering new ways to integrate disparate issues, such as gender, capitalism and climate change, into a coherent whole.
